THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR'S PAGE

Fiscal Year 2020 shall forever be remembered for the resilience shown by the employees of Public Defender Services during a world pandemic. Kitchen tables became desks; children and pets became unwitting conference participants; and self-discipline and independent motivation became essential job requirements. "Zoom," "Skype," and "Teams" became part of their everyday lexicon.

With the onset of the pandemic could have come the natural inclination to stand still and see "if this too shall pass". Instead, this agency's employees responded and adapted. Equipment and plants were moved from office to home; VPN access was obtained; phones were configured; and business continued as usual in an unusual way.

So, the employees of the agency continued the processing of vouchers and attorneys continued to be compensated for work done; clients continued to be counseled and, in fact, efforts were made to protect them from danger while incarcerated; administrative support continued to be provided to public defender corporations; legal education was reconfigured but still provided; and the mission of upholding the right to counsel continued to move forward.

However, concessions had to be made, and the agency's Annual Report for FY2020 is one such concession. The report is abbreviated, focusing entirely on the statistical data that is routinely gathered and organized. No reports from the public defender corporations or the various divisions of Public Defender Services will be found. No reports of the annual conference can be provided as the conference was a casualty. The ordinary course of business was in itself extraordinary during the latter part of Fiscal Year 2020, so the extraordinary efforts typically made were not.

But, again, I am proud to report that the business of the agency continued notwithstanding nature's hurdles and that the employees of the agency continued to take pride in their mission and in their own purpose. COVID-19, in all its fury, did not dampen the enthusiasm and the spirit of those people that are the heart and soul of Public Defender Services.

Respectfully,

Dana F. Eddy
Executive Director
Public Defender Services

Appendix A

Appointed Counsel Statistics

In 1961, a Florida court refused to provide a public defender for Clarence Earl Gideon, who was accused of robbery. Gideon appealed his conviction to the US Supreme Court on the grounds that the Fourteenth Amendment incorporated the Sixth Amendment's right to counsel to the states. The Supreme Court ruled in Gideon's favor, requiring states to provide a lawyer to any defendant who could not afford one.

Appendix C

Appointed Counsel/PDC Comparisons

Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas led a revolution in juvenile justice, including authoring In re Gault, which extended due process rights to juvenile defendants. Prior to becoming a Justice, Fortas represented Clarence Gideon (highlighted in the cover page for Appendix A) in his appeal before the Supreme Court.

Gerald Gault, a 15-year-old, was sentenced to almost six years (until his 21st birthday) in the Arizona State Industrial School for (allegedly) making an obscene phone call to his neighbor (who never appeared at the hearings). Had he been an adult, the maximum punishment he could have received was a $50.00 fine or two months in jail.

Appendix D

Appointed Counsel Payee Totals

Miranda Rights (the police obligation to inform you of your Fifth Amendment right of an individual to refuse "to be a witness against" themself and Sixth Amendment right to an attorney) was established in Miranda v. Arizona (1966).

Ernesto Miranda was not informed of his rights prior to the police interrogation. During the two-hour interrogation, Miranda allegedly confessed to committing the crimes, which the police apparently recorded. Miranda, who had not finished ninth grade and had a history of mental instability, had no counsel present. At trial, the prosecution's case consisted solely of his confession.
